Xpressnap® Guarantees 25 Percent Reduction in Napkin Usage

But independent studies show new dispensers produce savings up to 50 percent

Xpressnap® dispensers carry a money-back guarantee that they will reduce napkin usage by at least 25 percent over traditional spring-loaded dispensers, but many end users experience much greater savings.

JoAnna Brooks, foodservice director for the Upper Arlington City School District in Ohio, has cut napkin usage by her students by more than 50 percent since she began using Xpressnap® dispensers in the fall of 2004. That's no small savings in a school foodservice program that serves more than 3,000 lunches per day.

"We're not ordering nearly as many napkins as we used to," Brooks said. "Before Xpressnap, we were going through a case of napkins in 20 days. Now we go through a case in 40-50 days."

Brook's experience is not unusual among Xpressnap users, according to a recent study conducted by an independent research firm.

Technomics found that Xpressnap dispensers decreased napkin usage up to 50 percent for end users who switched from small dispensers, and up to 30 percent for those who switched from large dispensers.

Xpressnap dispensers are available in six models: tabletop, stand, countertop, in-counter, wall mount and drive-thru. All share the same innovative technology that delivers one napkin at a time, every time. Patrons touch only the napkins they take and take only the napkins they will use.
